

DEERFIELD CHARITABLE FOUNDATION MISSION STATEMENT

We exist to nurture Deerfield's spirit of generosity, enriching the lives of residents and sharing our resources with people across Western North Carolina.

A LETTER FROM OUR Director of Philanthropy

Beginning in March my office door stood at a 45 degree angle – sort of open/sort of closed. It was my way of saying, "If there's only one of you, and you have a mask on, and you don't have a fever, and you're prepared to sit in that chair by the door – come on in!" Sometimes my door was entirely closed as I worked from home. There were many times a handwritten sign hung outside my office announcing that I was "in a Zoom meeting." And mine wasn't the only closed door ... it seemed that entry was denied everywhere one turned on our campus.

But as the saying goes, "When one door closes – another door opens!" I've never lived through a time when the truth of that sentiment was more relevant than during these long months of the pandemic. As doors were slamming shut all around us, residents came knocking. They came poking their heads through small openings, asking how they could help. This community of retirees wanted to learn the best ways to encourage Deerfield employees and to keep each other safe and healthy. They were eager to hear about local organizations providing support to those hardest hit by the pandemic and the resulting economic challenges. They even found ways to support local business owners who struggled to stay afloat during uncertain times.

Deerfield Charitable Foundation's Board of Directors also approached closed doors with unrelenting optimism and a spirit of creativity. They added a meeting or two to the 2020 schedule and got to work, addressing the obvious needs in our local community and responding with enthusiasm to new ideas and opportunities to provide much-needed support.

"As doors were closing all around us, residents came knocking."

The best thing about the location of my office, although far from many of my co-workers, is that it's on a traditionally busy thoroughfare. Residents regularly pass my office on their way to meals, classes, the gym, the spa, the bank...but this year they took the "stay safe – stay home" orders seriously and we all suffered from resulting loneliness. We also grew in compassion, sacrificial giving, and thoughtful outreach. Don't get me wrong – I wouldn't want to do it again! But, I do see opening doors and persisting in doing good as an exercise that served our community well.

In the following pages you will read about the efforts of many who chose, although struggling through 2020 like the rest of us, to see it as a year in desperate need of their help.

May the stories of open doors bring you hope in 2021,

Michelle Wooley
Director of Philanthropy

Residents Opening Doors

The Business of Encouragement

In March of 2020 local businesses were facing really tough times. Employees were taking risks and making personal sacrifices every day to continue providing services and care on our campus. One generous Deerfield couple wanted to know: "What can we do to encourage employees and support struggling local businesses?"

They visited small restaurants and made arrangements with owners for the necessary quantities of gift cards. Choosing seven eateries, these anonymous donors purchased $25 gifts for each of Deerfield's nearly 350 employees.

Wide-Spread Protection

Masks were mandated, but in very short supply.
From experienced seamstresses to those with basic sewing skills,
residents volunteered to help supply Deerfield with desperately needed

personal protective equipment. Starting with our healthcare employees, staff and volunteers worked together to find the perfect-fitting mask. Resident Pat Collett made samples, created detailed instructions and worked with Andrea Stern, Michelle Kievit, and Michelle Wooley to put together sewing kits for our volunteer team. Residents and local friends of Deerfield spent long hours sewing, providing masks to both employees and residents.

Bundle Up

With many local shelters closed or at diminished capacity due to COVID-19 restrictions, there was an increased number of homeless people facing winter months and freezing temperatures. Betsy Cantrell had no idea what sort of response

she might get from her plea for coats, hats, scarves, gloves, and other cold weather gear, but she soon found out! After three carloads to Homeward Bound, two carloads to ABCCM, one to Western Carolina Rescue Mission, and one to a local elementary school Betsy reported that the drive was officially over! We were so proud to join Betsy in such a worthy effort. Helping Asheville's homeless population stay safer than they might have otherwise been was an honor for many Deerfield residents who gave gently used winter gear for a good cause.

Sisterhood for Good

As in years past, the residents were eager to support Project Dignity in the most practical and helpful way possible – by unboxing and repackaging feminine supply products for girls and women who don't have the resources to buy what they need every month. Although many schools were closed for remote learning Project Dignity has persisted in getting product to social workers and food pantries who then distribute to those in need. We gathered outdoors and spent two mornings working "together" – socially distanced.

Too Many Clothes - Too Little Time

Bonnie Hull and her Sophie's volunteers have been throwing a twice-annual men's sale for Deerfield residents and employees for years! In pre-COVID days we gathered in the Blue Ridge Room and enjoyed great deals on clothing donated by Deerfield residents, past and present. This year, however, with large gatherings forbidden, Bonnie's storage spaces were bursting at the seams. Working together, the clothing was sorted for donation and Western Carolina Rescue Ministry showed up to retrieve clothing that will provide warmth to those most in need.

Empty Bowls

Roger Alexander and Pat Patterson are both relatively new to pottery. The pandemic offered them more time for this fun pursuit and they soon learned of MANNA Food Bank's Empty Bowls event, held annually in September. MANNA is a favorite charity among Deerfield residents and our community is always eager to support them in whatever ways possible. Roger and Pat promptly set to work, making handmade pottery for MANNA to offer Empty Bowls attendees at next year's fundraiser. We are anticipating more resident participation for this worthy cause in 2021!

A LETTER FROM OUR Board Chair

Several years ago, while working on long term goals and strategic planning, the Deerfield Board asked, "Where do we see ourselves in 10 years? Do we want to provide housing for middle income retirees? Do we want to expand to multisite? What will have the greatest impact for good in the broader community?" With comprehensive research and a committed board, the decision was made to initiate the Deerfield Charitable Foundation. The Foundation would support Deerfield's programs and activities while finding ways to serve seniors through partnerships with other resourced organizations.

"What will have the greatest impact for good in the broader community?"

I am grateful for the board's planning and foresight as it set the stage for partnerships with two incredible local organizations providing housing and health/wellness services to WNC's aging population. We are excited to be working with Habitat for Humanity to provide homes designed for aging in place and with MAHEC's Center for Healthy Aging to expand homebased healthcare for seniors.

2020 was a productive year for the board as we continued making strides to solidify our mission and include resident voices in this work. Kicking off our second year, we introduced the Foundation and its board of directors to the residents at a community-wide meeting. We are also thrilled to announce the addition of two Deerfield residents to our board of directors, terms to begin in 2021. Joanne Brannon and Tim Kurtz both offer a passion for philanthropy. Their invaluable insights will create a true sense of teamwork between the board and Deerfield residents.

We continued addressing needs at Deerfield with scholarships for employees, assistance for residents in need, and unique pandemic-related support in our healthcare department.

A special thank you to Jeff Covington, Larry Harris, and Andy Strauss who have worked tirelessly to keep the work of the Charitable Foundation moving forward during a year of unprecedented challenge. The Foundation Board looks forward to celebrating with you our past achievements along with future endeavors, once it is safe to gather. I can't wait!

HABITAT FOR HUMANITY Aging in Place

Ann Cox is a retired high school teacher turned school librarian from southwest Virginia. Her daughters and grandchildren live in Western North Carolina and five years after her retirement in 2019 she moved to Asheville to be near her family. She knew that housing costs in Western North Carolina would challenge her budget, but her family reassured her that something would work out. Her daughter, a clinical social worker, was the first to hear about Habitat's Aging in Place homes. The more she and Ann learned, the more convinced they became that this was the best and most sustainable option for Ann.

"I can't tell you how grateful I am. I am so excited to live in a neighborhood that is multi-generational and multi-cultural. Living in a beautifully planned and walkable neighborhood will be perfect for me and my sweet dog, Henry. Being new to the area when COVID-19 broke out, the new homeowner class has been one of the only places for me to connect with other people and we are all working towards the same goal. The one story house, with its universal design, open floor plan, attached storage, and small yard is exactly right for aging in place. Thank you so much for what you've done to make this possible for me!"

Continuing our relationship with Asheville Area Habitat for Humanity has looked a bit different this year. Although our residents' volunteer efforts were thwarted by necessary work site stoppages due to the pandemic, we forged ahead with our $440,000 sponsorship of the eight Aging in Place homes in their newest neighborhood: New Heights in West Asheville. Foundation footings have been poured for the first two such homes and we were thrilled to meet Ann, the first of eight homeowners to qualify for this innovative and affordable housing option. Her closing is scheduled for August of 2021.

The West Asheville site is gorgeous, but has been cleared to make way for new homes, leaving behind great opportunities for a landscape planning project. The New Heights community will also require one central mail/communication kiosk, and eventually a shelter for children awaiting the school bus. The board of directors of Deerfield Charitable Foundation approved an initiative to support these needs in this new neighborhood. In response Deerfield residents, staff, and board members donated $9,955 to the Deerfield Cares fund.

MAHEC Center for Healthy Aging

William McLean, MD and Tasha Woodall, PharmD, BCGP, CPP co-direct Mountain Area Health Education Center's (MAHEC) Center for Healthy Aging (CHA) and currently provide care for Deerfield residents as well. Dr. Will, as he's affectionately known on our campus, is Deerfield's Medical Director and provides primary care for many of our residents. Dr. Woodall specializes in geriatric pharmacotherapy and is deeply committed to helping her patients benefit from the appropriate medications, while carefully managing interactions and the long-term effects of those medications.

These two passionate leaders approached Deerfield with an opportunity. They asked us to support their efforts to address the needs of a growing older adult population in Western North Carolina. Housing is becoming less affordable while the cost of care has become increasingly burdensome. There are too few clinical providers to care for this growing population and the CHA hopes to comprehensively address the clinical and social challenges facing older adults in our region with three primary aims:

- Serve as the regional standard for geriatric education
- Lead the community in linking clinical and aging services
- Innovate in clinical practice

Deerfield is delighted to formally invest in the leadership team of MAHEC's Center for Healthy Aging with a gift of $330,000 to be paid over three years.

The Center is committed to increasing the pipeline of clinical providers who care for older adults, particularly those of color. It is working to expand its model of home-based primary care to create a roadmap for rural communities to enhance services for older residents. The Center is also exploring innovative prevention programs and solutions for affordable housing and higher quality, lower cost healthcare. "The main goal of home-based primary care is to keep patients in their homes and as independent as possible," Woodall explained. "If we don't bridge the gap in services to help older adults age according to their wishes, who will?" Woodall said.

"The incredible generosity of these gifts gives us the opportunity to mature our programs, prove the value of interdisciplinary partnerships, and improve the well-being of older adults in Western North Carolina," notes Dr. McLean.

"If we don't bridge the gap in services to help older adults age according to their wishes, who will?"

Community Grants Offer Pandemic Assistance

During the summer months Deerfield Charitable Foundation's Board of Directors initiated several gifts from Deerfield's Donor Advised Fund at the Community Foundation of Western North Carolina (CFWNC). The realities of the pandemic were setting in and a sense of urgency led the board to decide on the following grants:

$100,000 to the Janirve Sudden and Urgent Need (SUN) Grant Program

"When the pandemic hit, requests to the SUN grant program increased significantly. SUN grants have an established history of getting money to nonprofits quickly through a streamlined process. Organizations that provide critical services for seniors, children, domestic violence victims and families received SUN awards to purchase personal protection equipment, support facilities offering remote school supervision and food for children from low-income families, and much more. For many, these SUN awards have provided a lifeline for our communities' most vulnerable people." – Lindsay Hearn, CFWNC, Communications Director

$25,000 to MemoryCare

"Covid has taken quite a toll on the families we serve, most of whom care for a loved one who is still living at home. The restrictions with the pandemic and isolation necessary for everyone's safety mean that support structures many relied on are no longer available and routines have been upended. We are seeing a nearly 30% increase in calls and emails from families as they grapple with these changes and, it is a blessing beyond words that our staff can be here to listen, guide, and support families. With your gift, you all helped make this possible and it means the world."

- Virginia Templeton, MD, MemoryCare, Executive Director

$25,000 to Calvary Episcopal Church Food Pantry

"The Food Pantry was able to buy three refrigerators and much needed food for our food insecure friends with the generous donation from Deerfield. The refrigerators allow more fresh produce, eggs, butter and cheese to be safely stored. Our planned community garden, will soon be ready for a summer crop. Our goal of providing more fresh food will be met. CECFP is grateful for the generous donations by Deerfield that allows us to fulfill our calling to provide nutritious foods to our hurting community." – Carol Romine, CECFP, Volunteer

$25,000 to Council on Aging of Asheville and Buncombe County

"Because of your very generous gift of $25,000
Council on Aging was able to strengthen outreach programs for at-risk seniors during the worst pandemic in over 100 years. These service, education, and advocacy programs help improve the quality of life for all seniors, but especially for those with limited financial resources. We could not provide our clients these supportive opportunities to age well in the community without the generosity of our wonderful donors." – Heather Bauer, COA, Executive Director

THE 2020 Legacy Society Appreciation Gala

The assignment: create an event to honor Deerfield's Legacy Society membership in the middle of a pandemic. This was a challenge Adam Lamb and his Dining Department team embraced with enthusiasm.

Their brainstorming and teamwork produced a fine dining experience to rival any local restaurant offerings in a

"foody" town like Asheville. Complete with charcuterie and a custom cocktail, this delivered-to-your-door five course meal kit came with detailed instructions, a lovely bottle of wine, and plenty of time to dress up and set the table with your favorite china. The program, with live music, behind the scenes video, and recorded testimonials was conducted through Zoom. BLT (Bring Love to Tables) volunteers happily provided lovely florals to elevate the dining experience.

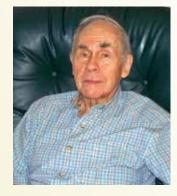

The Deerfield Legacy Society's intent is to recognize with appreciation and gratitude donors who help secure Deerfield's future through planned gifts, such as gifts in their will, charitable remainder trusts, charitable gift annuities, or life insurance.

Notable Legacy Gifts of 2020

Frances A. Simonds. a resident of Deerfield for 15 years, passed away in February, 2012. A quiet, unassuming, and deeply spiritual person she was extremely grateful for the compassionate care she received from the nursing staff during her years in our community. Living modestly, but with great means, she designated approximately 2.2 million dollars to Residents Assistance, St Giles Chapel, and the Health Care Center. Years later after the death of the last living beneficiary, we've received her final gifts of $119,751 designated for Residents Assistance and $59,868 for Deerfield's Health Care Fund.

Richard Farrow,

a resident of Deerfield for 13 years, passed away in September. Mr. Farrow, an avid collector of art and books, was incredibly well-read and had a wonderfully dry sense of humor. He was particularly fond of the residents with whom he dined in the Bistro and he missed that daily interaction when he made his move to Assisted Living. Offering no indication that he planned to include Deerfield in his estate plans, we were surprised to learn that he designated our community the beneficiary of a money market account worth $250,944.

Legacy gifts like these allow Deerfield and the Foundation to continue fulfilling their missions, providing the funds necessary to support residents with compassionate care throughout their lifetimes and employees with increasingly enhanced opportunities for new challenges and growth. Thank you to Mrs. Simonds, Mr. Farrow, and all who have chosen to benefit Deerfield with an estate gift!

THE RESIDENTS ASSISTANCE FUND

"I can't tell you how reassuring it is to know that the Residents Assistance Fund is there for me if I should ever need it. It's an incredible safety net." An Independent Living resident, having recently lost her husband, mentioned during an impromptu visit how grateful she is to be part of the Deerfield family. One need only imagine what it must be like to lose a lifetime partner and then feel alone and worried about your future. The most incredible gift Deerfield offers its residents is the security that they will be cared for compassionately and with dignity regardless of what life might bring.

For more than 65 years Deerfield has fulfilled its promise to provide compassionate care to residents who need financial assistance or who outlive their resources through no fault of their own. 2020 was no different and, in fact, offered many reminders about how unpredicatble life can be. Throughout the year, Deerfield was grateful for the resources necessary to provide $390,000 in resident support and services for residents who required additional help.

THE Danny Boone Employee Scholarship Program

Deerfield's Employee Scholarship Program is named after a beloved administrator who was a cheerleader and an advocate for employees on our campus. Always bringing out the best in people, he encouraged his employees to reach for their dreams. In the last ten years Deerfield has awarded 81 employees with scholarships for higher education and hopes for fulfillment and security. All 13 of the 2020 scholars are enrolled in classes related to health care.

The Foundation leadership, along with the Danny Boone Employee Scholarship Committee, would like to grow the $372,961 endowment fund to $1,000,000 in hopes of funding all future students and providing scholarships in perpetuity. We want to thank you for the support you've offered these efforts thus far and we look forward to exponential growth.

Congratulations to our 2020 Scholars: 1-Al Nichols 2-Britanny Drake 3-Britanny Batson 4-Ashley Banks 5-Hunter O'Kelley 6-Ginger Williams 7-Andrea Roberts 8-Geovanna Lopez 9-Jennifer Bradley 10-Lloyd Mincher 11-Jazmin Vergara Cerecedo 12-Mitzi Odom 13-Tanesha Lyttle

THE Health Care Fund

Throughout 2020 residents and staff adapted to new regulations through long months of quarantine, many choosing to enter the realms of Zoom, FaceTime,

Kindle, Instacart, and Amazon.
Residents in Assisted Living and Skilled Care, many of whom don't use cell phones, learned to connect with friends and family members through technology. Using a screen to visit or seeing family through a window, talking to them using a "walkie-talkie" of sorts, was new territory that offered welcome encouragement. Some of that technology was made possible with use of funds from our Charitable Foundation.

The Health Care Fund also provided the resources necessary for much of the networking, education, shared wisdom, guidance, and procurement of supplies needed as a result of the pandemic. Facing a brand new pandemic scenario, one of those once in 100 years events, dictates a very steep learning curve and the best way to learn is in tandem with other aging services organizations facing similar challenges.

Membership in professional associations can be cost-prohibitive, but the support our nursing staff has received as a result of those memberships this year is invaluable. Thank you so much for the part you played in making these resources available to our residents and staff!

98.6 Without Symptoms

A new normal sighting on the Deerfield campus is the "check point station." The temperature/symptom station at the entrance to our Health Care areas was immediately necessary but with many of our employees addressing the urgent demands of the pandemic, volunteer support was so helpful. Residents willingly manned this station over the weekends during those initial days of the crisis, lifting spirits and spreading joy during a time when things felt so uncertain.

Origami Spinners

Nobu Tanaka, like many residents, has lots of time on her hands. She used that time and her hands to create beautiful origami spinners. Fashioning 40 spinners for residents in Assisted Living gave her a sense of purpose and she hopes the little pieces of art brought moments of joy to her friends and neighbors in Health Care.

A LETTER FROM OUR CEO and CFO

"You don't know what you don't know" and that's never been more true than in the year 2020. In addition to navigating the pandemic and planning for Deerfield's growth as a community, we were busy finding a rhythm in our work with the Deerfield Charitable Foundation. Although the Foundation's sole purpose as a supporting organization sounds simple, (to support Deerfield's charitable activities) it turns out any meaningful new venture will present complex challenges as well as wonderful opportunities.

"We both feel blessed to be in positions that allow us to watch this new effort take shape..."

Although we became official in 2019, 2020 was the first year that the Foundation was fully operational. We began accepting gifts, establishing a routine, educating Deerfield residents, and finding ways to fulfill our mission. We both feel blessed to be in positions that allow us to watch this new effort take shape - close up and in real time. It was so encouraging to watch as the board of directors worked together right out of the gate, finding ways for this fledgling organization to support other non-profits in concrete ways and in the midst of such a tumultuous year.

After more than twenty years of working together for the good of Deerfield and our local community it has been so gratifying to see that work take on a new form and a new name while maintaining a consistent and overarching commitment to leaving the world better than we found it. We hope you'll join us in this commitment as we anticipate what's next in 2021 for Deerfield Charitable Foundation.

DIRECT IMPACT THROUGH Directed Outreach

Towards the end of 2020 the moratorium on evictions was set to run out and one Deerfield couple was particularly concerned. With the end of legal protections for local renters looming, they began researching charities which offer rent assistance to those with diminished incomes due to the economic downturn.

With Deerfield's Directed Outreach list in hand, they chose to give $40,000 to ABCCM, designated for their Eviction Protection Program and $10,000 to Homeward Bound for Homelessness Prevention/Permanent Supportive Housing Programs.

"The average shortfall on rent is $600 and ABCCM strives to meet $200 of that need, helping participants seek other sources for the remainder. This gift was incredible – helping 200 families in need and leading the organization to reach for a broader campaign goal of $150,000. 100% of this gift will go directly to meet needs, as designated by the donor. Thank you so much!"

- Rev. Scott Rogers, ABCCM, Executive Director

"Homeward Bound's mission is to prevent and end homelessness through permanent housing and support. This past year residents at Deerfield helped us prevent 88 individuals and families from becoming homeless while moving 90 homeless people into permanent housing. In the midst of the COVID-19 crisis, you enabled us to keep our AHOPE Day Center open, provide shelter in 60 rooms at the Red Roof Inn, and offer respite for homeless veterans in additional motels. We are deeply grateful for the support of the residents at Deerfield."

- Jim Lowder, Homeward Bound, Strategic Gifts Officer
